A Democratic Weekly For Historic Appomattox And Buckingaam Counties

Established 1892, by H. D. Flood and S. I. Ferguson APPOMATTOX, VIRGINIA THURSDAY FEBRUARY 14, 1935 Consolidation: Southside Virginian & Appomattox & Buckingham Times

Father DARKLEAF'S Column

Wherein the Editor Gets In a Personal Touch

Prosperity is said to have come to Flemington, New Jersey as a result of the Hauptmann trial.

The circulation of the "Hunterdon County Democrat", the Flemington weekly newspaper has jumped over 20 per cent since the trial began. The Flemington "home paper," in which the editor of the Times Virginian subscribed, covered the trial by means of a separate story from each days proceedings.

One of the features of the famous Flemington trial was the wild scramble for entrance to the daily court sessions.

All manner of schemes were reported to gain entrance to the small court room. One day alone, no less than five women appeared at the court door claiming to be Mrs. Edward J. Reilly. (Reilly was chief of the defense attorneys.

Five men are already in the death cell of the New Jersey state pen. Mike Mule is there and George Stefano and Connie Scarpone, they killed a man, the trio of Kurt Barth, another killer is there and so is James Williams, a Negro.

The Minneapolis Daily Star had this remarkable bit to say about the Hauptmann trial in its January 25 edition: "Col. Charles A. Lindbergh listened to the proceedings intently, leaning forward with his hands on his knees and his chin in his palms. There was a slight fulsh on his face." To which we say, no wonder.

Even Lon Chaney would have a hard time doing that.

Here's the way Appomattox people asked at random, would have decided the Hauptmann case:

Frank Cawthorn: "I am satisfied Hauptmann is guilty."

Dr. Swing: "I'd guess about 30 years."

Wiley Morris: "I believe he is guilty, but doubt if it has been fully proved."

C. S. McDearmon: "He had something to do with it all right."

DuVal Connor: "The chair without hesitation."

Father Dearkleaf: "I'll be hard to get FOUR women to agree on anything."

Ned Hancock: "I hardly think the case has been proved enough for the chair."

W. T. Smith: "He ought to get the chair."

R. B. Hudgins: "A long term in the pen."

Miss Emma Smith: "I believe he is guilty."

After the trial Col. Charles A. Lindbergh plans to fly to the Pacific. He has been a constant attendant at the Hauptmann trial, not missing a single day.

The defense announced today its plans to appeal if a conviction came from the Hauptmann jury.

It has been stated that an appeal would cost $50,000, most of which would go for printing the record of the case at $3 per page.

Bats Are Not Blind

Contrary to common belief, bats are not blind. They possess very good eyes which, however, are often hidden in the fur on the face to the extent that they are not readily visible. In addition to eyesight, however, a bat possesses very keen sensory nerves in its wings which enable it to fly about in pitch black without striking anything. This has been established

Supervisors Unable To Find Funds For Health Unit Work

The Appomattox county board of supervisors in their regular monthly meeting here yesterday, for reasons of necessary economy, voted against a plan to affiliate with a new district health unit, the cost of which would have been a minimum of $18000 a year to this county.

Buckingham and several other counties had previously voted for the unit, which would have included the services of Dr. Brumfield, a county nurse and health officer.

Dr. Brumfield appeared before the local supervisors yesterday in behalf of the plan.

The supervisors felt that an increase in taxes was highly undesirable and that without an increase in revenue, funds for the project simply were not available.

Col. Joel W. Flood, who returned last week end from an interview with congressman P. H. Drewry in Drewry, told the Times Virginian today that he felt there was a possibility that the bill creating a national military park on the famous Surrender area at Appomattox might pass in the current session, with a $100,000 appropriation for the work of establishing the park. However, he said that there was little hope that any government funds would be available for purchase of the necessary land, and that even if the bill passed, the park could not be made a reality until the land was ready to be deeded to the national park service.

Col. Flood is now investigating prospects of being able to obtain the Surrender area land. He expects an engineer from Washington here in a few days to survey the area and decide what tracts would be necessary.

Col. Flood will go to Richmond this week end and will see Wilbur Hall, of the state conservation commission in regards to possible state aid in securing the land.

These steps are but further advances in a movemnnt started two scnesrions ago to make an adequate memorial out of the site of the actual end of the War Between the States.
